The study was conducted to find out the process of settling State receivables carried out by the State Accountability Committee and the obstacles faced and the solutions. The research method is an empirical juridical approach. The research specification is descriptive-analytical with interview data collection tools to Yogyakarta wealth and service auction officials. Based on qualitative analysis, it is known that the process of settling State receivables consists of submission, receipt, correction and changes in the amount of the State's receivables, repayment of the State's receivables, summons, making joint statements, determining the amount of the State's receivables, billing as well as forced notification, confiscation, auctioning objects and / or confiscated goods, and settlement . Constraints faced are, the management of State receivables has no time limit and the law does not explain the confiscation of goods other than collateral. The solution is to ask the legislator to revise the State Receivables Act and to add rules regarding the time limit for handling the State Receivables and the confiscation of goods other than collateral.
