Indonesia is known as an archipelago country with a coastline of 99,093 kilometers, according to the Geospatial Information Agency in 2013. This makes Indonesia has many beaches with different scenic beauty. Especially in the area of Gunung Kidul, Yogyakarta, which still has many hidden beaches. This is natural because Yogyakarta is better known as a student city and a center for delicious culinary delights.

The main object of this report is to test the writer's English Skills in making English videos by explaining one of the tourist destinations located in Panggang, Gunung Kidul, Yogyakarta, namely Wohkudu Beach. In this report, the authors use a qualitative-data research method, including video footage, pictures, and narration.

The result of this report is knowing that the author has problems in making videos about these tourist destinations. However, the author tries to explain in detail each spot by including a video clip or an image. All of the applications used for these efforts were in English.
