ABSTRACT

Management of goods and product sales in a cosmetics business is very important, because the availability of goods determines whether or not the business processes run smoothly. The management of goods and the sale of these products must be recorded properly so that the cosmetics business can run, therefore a management of goods and product sales is needed. With the management of goods and product sales, Owners or Employees can access information related to the management of goods and product sales anywhere. The management of goods and product sales will be designed for a cosmetic business called Summunar, which in the management of goods and product sales will contain data on incoming goods, data for outgoing goods, and supplier data. The management of goods and the sale of this product can be used if the Owner and Employee already have an account created by the admin. The management of goods and sales of this product is Web-based which will be built using HTML and CSS as a display system, PHP as a programming language that provides functions, MySQL as a database server, and sublime text as a support. The management of goods and product sales is expected to be able to assist Summunar Owners and Employees in overcoming problems of managing goods and selling existing products.
